October

Breast Cancer Awareness Month

FACT

211,000

The number of American Women who'll be diagnosed with breast cancer this year.

1,700

The number of men.

Source: The National Breast Cancer Foundation

If you haven't had your annual mammogram, this is the month to do it. Keep in mind, if you receive a negative test result and still suspect something just isn't right, push for additional tests. It never hurts to follow your gut instinct!

According to the National Cancer Institute, a women's overall lifetime risk of getting breast cancer is 1 in 8, and in men approximately, 1 in 1000. The National Society of Genetic Counselors says that only 5% to 10% of breast cancers are caused by genetics, and those that are inherited are split nearly equal between the father's and Mother's genes.

These Statistics point out two important considerations that we all must realize:

- The fact that you may have no family history of Breast Cancer does not significantly reduce your risk of developing this disease.
- When looking into your family's history, it is important to track BOTH sides of the family tree.
